Minstrels Enter- tain Large Crowd.

Barber's Minstrel and Vaudeville show came into town unknown to the people and without a billing of a single day in advance the organization played to two large crowds on Monday and Tuesday evening.

The company was forced to drop off here owing to small box in a number of the towns mapped out on the route. The company went from here to Xenia and from there to Jamestown. The company shows under a tent but the bad weather has forced them to seek the opera houses. A special car carries the thirty men and the equipment.

Central Committee Is Organized. Rev. Taylor Chosen Moderator.

The organization of the new central committee of the Republican party took place last Saturday and the control of this body passed from the 'reformers' to the 'old organization'. It will be remembered that there were a number of warm contests last year over the control of this body as well as the executive committee between the contending factions.

All of the newly elected members were present Saturday except five. The lineup between the two factions is given as 24 to 7 in favor of the old crowd. The 'reformers' made no effort to organize knowing that they were hopelessly in the minority.

Upon motion of Harry D. Smith a temporary organization was formed with John Fudge chairman and Joseph Santmyer, secretary and Archie Gordon, vice chairman. This organization was later made permanent.

A resolution was passed creating the Executive Committee as follows: Chas. A. Davis, M. L. Fennell, Clement Jones, Joseph Santmyer, M. A. Broadstone, Marcus Shoup, H. R. Hawkins.

This committee organized as follows: M. L. Fennell, chairman; Chas. Davis, secretary and M. A. Broadstone, treasurer.

C. & O. PUTS UP A HARD FIGHT

Big Trunk Line Anxious to Get Into Rich Ohio Field.

ROAD WINS PRELIMINARY BOUTS

Sale of the Hocking Valley and the K. & M. Stock Contested in the Courts by a Few Small Shareholders—Towns Along the Railways Anxious For Chesapeake & Ohio Control.

Columbus, O., (Special.)—The fight of a few small shareholders to prevent the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad from securing control of the Hocking Valley and an interest in the Kanawha & Michigan railroads is not meeting with great success.

Those who complained against the purchase asked Judge Sater of the United States court to dissolve their petition, and the request was granted. During the past ten days the Hocking Valley sale has been the subject of much argument in the courts.

The trouble started in the Franklin county common pleas court, before Judge Kinkead, when demand was made that the retirement of certain stock be prevented. Judge Kinkead stirred up a hornet's nest by appointing receivers for the Hocking Valley. This unlooked for decision was at once appealed to the circuit court and the receivers were summarily dismissed.

The railroad had previously asked the United States court to take the case into its jurisdiction. While Judge Sater had this under consideration, representatives of another small block of stock tried to get action on an earlier case previously removed to the United States court, and through Samuel Undermyer of New York and Wade Hampton Ellis, appeared in court.

On this motion the case was set for trial before Judge Sater. The railroads were on hand with witnesses and records to defend the suit. They were prepared to show that the purchase of the Hocking Valley and K. & M. stock was clearly within the provision of Ohio laws. Before the railroads were given an opportunity to make their defense the petition was dismissed at the request of Attorney Ellis, representing the plaintiffs. Which ends that angle of the litigation for the time being at least.

There is great interest throughout Ohio over the effort of the C. & O. to enter this state. It is one of the few big trunk lines that has not tapped Ohio and business interests are anxious to have the road get into the state.

Railroad's Side of Case.

In a formal statement issued by the C. & O. railroad that side of the case is presented, as follows: "Late in March, 1910, the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway company purchased a large interest, being a majority of the common stock, of the Hocking Valley Railway company, which had outstanding $15,000,000 of preferred stock and $1,000,000 of common stock. For this stock it paid in cash upward of $120 per share."

"At about the same time the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway company acquired all of the stock of the Toledo & Ohio Central Railway company. At the same time and shortly thereafter the Lake Shore and the Chesapeake & Ohio each acquired separately and in approximately equal amounts, about 40,000 shares out of 90,000 shares of the Kanawha & Michigan company."

"The Hocking Valley Railway company, through the sale of its interest in the Toledo & Ohio Central and in the stock of the Kanawha & Michigan, realized something over $10,000,000 in cash, and from the sale of other small holdings of securities realized additional amounts, so that it had in its treasury nearly $13,000,000 of free money."

"Its board of directors determined to retire its preferred stock and proceedings were taken to that end."

How Plaintiffs Stand.

A suit was brought in the court of common pleas of Franklin county, Ohio. The plaintiffs in this suit were one Mannington, who is said to be the secretary of the Ohio Coal Operators' association, and two young lawyers of Columbus named Schoedinger and Westfall. They had acquired a few shares of preferred stock in the fall of 1909, which holdings immediately made the basis of numerous demands upon the officers and directors of the Hocking Valley, and on April 9 of this year, subsequent to the publication of the notice of the retirement of the preferred stock and of the special stockholders' meeting to increase the common stock, purchased an aggregate of 30 shares of common stock, which holdings constitute the basis of their claim to a standing to maintain their suit.

Litigation Their End.

"It has been frequently charged in open court and never denied that the plaintiffs purchased their stock for the purpose of maintaining this litigation. The plaintiffs claimed that the transactions which we have mentioned were part of a combination between the Lake Shore and the Chesapeake & Ohio to control the Hocking Valley and the Kanawha & Michigan and the Hocking Valley, and, claiming that they would be injured thereby, asking for an injunction and receiver and procuring a restraining order preventing the Hocking Valley from proceeding with the retirement of its preferred stock and from holding the special stockholders' meeting above mentioned, and also from reacquiring the Chesapeake & Ohio as one of the stockholders. This restraining order was issued ex parte upon the filing of a $1,000 bond.

Railroad's Action.

"The Hocking Valley promptly moved for a modification of the restraining order so as to permit the retirement of retirement of the preferred stock, a large part of which had already been redeemed. After argument the court, of its own motion, appointed J. M. Sheets, executor general of the state of Ohio, who several years ago instituted quo warranto proceedings against the Hocking Valley for forfeiture of its charter, and C. O. Hunter, until recently general solicitor of the company, a committee to examine the books of the company and report concerning certain facts alleged in affidavits submitted by the Hocking Valley and deposited upon at the hearing. This examination and report were made and corroborated in substantially every respect the statement that had been made upon behalf of the company. Notwithstanding this report the court thereupon ordered an argument upon the question whether or not the plaintiffs had any standing to maintain the suit and whether their motive in bringing the same was material. Counsel for the plaintiffs also attempted to argue for the appointment of a receiver, but the judge in open court promised counsel for the railway company that he would take no action in that matter without affording them opportunity to be heard concerning it."

Kinkead's Decision.

"After argument was closed the judge read a long opinion in which he decided practically every question involved in the case, and going outside of the questions that had been argued indicated, as we are informed, that he was prepared to appoint receivers."

"Upon its becoming apparent that the court was proceeding to take up that subject forthwith counsel for the railway company filed a petition and bond for the removal of the cause to the United States circuit court upon the ground that it involved a question arising under the laws of the United States. Upon this fact being reported to the judge, which was done at once, he announced that he would then proceed to appoint receivers, notwithstanding the removal, and named J. M. Sheets and H. J. Booth receivers. Of course the railway company contends that even if the case had not been removed there would have been no ground whatever for the appointment of receivers, and that the cause having been removed the judge was wholly without jurisdiction to make any order in the matter."

Not in Combine.

"We need hardly say that the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Lake Shore are not engaged in any combination in restraint of trade or otherwise. The Chesapeake & Ohio has purchased its interest in the Hocking Valley in absolute good faith for the purpose of developing its business as one of the great competitors for business in that section. It has hoped to build up not only a prosperous business in Ohio for the Hocking Valley and for itself, but to increase the general prosperity of the state and the efficiency of the public service. It was hardly expected that at the instance of the holders of 30 shares of stock, who purchased their holdings with the apparent intention of creating trouble, any court would hold its purchase unauthorized and its motives improper in a suit to which it was not even a party."

Society an Artificial Thing.

In social life we allow ourselves to be dragged round to do things we do not want to do for fear we shall be thought disagreeable. Long processions of carriages, and there is no funeral, but just an afternoon tea or reception, where most of the people have gone unwillingly and came out saying: "Well, that is over!" You know it. Why don't we live the real life? Why should you ever grasp the hand of a man whom you hate, except to ask his forgiveness or to find in him the ground of your forgiveness? Why should you adjust life at the edges instead of uniting it from the center? Why build society as an artificial thing instead of making it the union of souls and the sacrament of devotion?—Rev. T. R. Slicer.

Vacant Lot Cultivation.

Vacant lot cultivation in Kansas City, Mo., is being done this season under the direction of the City club. One nine-acre tract and several smaller lots have been set out in vegetables, the farming being done by needy persons. They are not taxed for soil, seeds or tools, and the City club has engaged a practical gardener to supervise the work.—Indianapolis News.

In Nuremberg there are 1,700 houses built before 1500 A. D., and 3,537 built in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

It is calculated that no fewer than 85,000 people spend their lives on the canal boats and barges of England alone.

POSTAL BANKS SYSTEM SOUND

House Measure as Reported Deals Safe Way.

TAFT'S PLANS ARE ENDORSED

Bill as Framed Will Not Result in Transfer of Local Funds to Big Banking Centers—Features of Proposed Law Explained.

The Republican national platform pledges the party to the establishment of postal savings banks for the people, and President Taft has been persistent in urging that this promise of the party, as well as others, be faithfully carried out.

A measure for the establishment of postal savings was first introduced in the senate, but there it was loaded with amendments to such a degree as to seriously impair the measure. Many of these amendments were fathered by those who are opposed to the project, and who hoped to have such a bill passed by congress that the president would find it necessary to apply the veto. Some of the amendments were the product of sincere friends, but the resultant jumble has been such that the house committee on postoffice and post-roads has thought best to report out a new measure on the subject of postal savings banks, which it is expected will have reasonably united Republican support.

There are three important sources of opposition to the postal savings bank bill. They are:

The banks, which fear competition. The money which the postal savings bank is to draw from the load of 2 per cent bonds they now bear and prevent them from suffering a loss on these bonds.

Those who fear that the postal savings system will result in the transfer of local funds into Wall Street.

Under the new plan the banks, and this includes the country institutions, need have no fear of any competition with the postal savings branches.

Bill Will Not Affect 2s.

Those who feared the social object of the proposed law was to rescue the national banks from an embarrassing situation with respect to the 2 per cent bonds they had on hand sought to prevent this by having the senate adopt an amendment forbidding the investment of any postal savings funds in bonds yielding less than 2 1/2 per cent interest.

As a matter of fact, it is asserted that the national banks, which own these 2s would not sell them if they could do so. They are using them to secure circulation and deposits. If they sold these securities they would have to retire a profitable circulation.

There is no heavy floating supply for the 2s. On the contrary, the slightest increase in the demand would raise the price up instantly, as was shown recently when securities for savings bank investment in certain states were ordered replaced by government bonds in securing government deposits in banks.

It is to inspire confidence.

The aim of the postal banks is to afford an easy and safe method of deposit for people who have their money or who are afraid of regular banks. It is proper for the government to offer the facilities of its post-offices to these timid and ignorant people and to be logical, those funds should not be used to benefit any particular class, but should be invested in government bonds, and thus make of the holder a national asset instead of a menace to the financial situation.

Any device to increase the deposits of the country banks, a corresponding increase must occur in the reserve deposits in New York, Chicago, Cleveland and Cincinnati. If a bank in a small Ohio town finds its deposits growing, it must, under existing law, increase its reserve in the large cities of the state.

Will Benefit Small Banks.

It will, to a far larger extent, of course, benefit the local bank of the small town if all of these hoards come out of hiding and are deposited therein, because the question of the reserve the country bank carries is comparatively a small matter.

It is proposed that all of the money put in the postoffice shall be deposited in the local banks on its way to the treasury, and that half of it must remain permanently in the banks. If a country bank gets a $10,000 deposit it must keep a $1,000 reserve, of which $500 may be kept on deposit in the reserve city. In other words, of the whole $10,000 deposited, only $900 is required to be sent to the large city.

Ohio has had several Democratic governors in the last fifty years, and pretty nearly all of them were honorable, able, popular men. But their politics was against them, and some was given the endorsement of a second term.

MAIL ORDER HOUSES ARE TRUSTS

Use Trust Methods to Get Business.

Special Representatives Can-vassing Rural Communities.

BY O. A. CHARLES.
[Copyright by O. A. Charles, 1910.]

The mail order houses, like all other trusts, are resorting to trust methods to get business, and the latest silent but extensive maneuver of these houses is to cover with specially trained merchandise salesmen the fields that have formerly been reached solely by their catalogues and printed matter.

The catalogue houses are gathering together the very best field selling forces possible to secure. The plan is to send armies of expert salesmen broadcast throughout the rural communities.

Now this means that the mail order houses are going after business with more determination and a stronger selling force than ever before.

You can surely realize the vital importance of this move when you remember that one large mail order house doing a business of $50,000,000 per year was begun with a $9 watch.

The same determined energy that produced the wonderful growth and immense wealth is now to be supplemented and reinforced by active salesmanship in the field.

The catalogues and printed matter will be used the same as they have always been used and the catalogue houses are schooling their men in all the scientific methods of expert salesmanship. Every man is being trained in all the known clever schemes and tricks for playing on the weakest points in human nature.

In employing these salesmen the mail order houses have only one source to choose from, and that is, experienced salesmen. First, these salesmen are sent out to sell under house system. They are being taught the details of the organization and the course of operation. This is absolutely necessary, because no matter how clever a salesman may be, he must understand the inside workings of the mail order game in order to beat the merchant and send the business out of rural communities.

These special representatives are taken in charge by able instructors, who make daily report on each man's progress. They watch the work of a salesman to find out whether he is quick, whether he is intelligent, whether he can talk well, whether he is industrious and whether he is manifesting special ability for work in the rural communities.

When a salesman has finished the course of training to become a mail order special representative he goes out to sell in a part of a big thing, part of an active commercial warfare; he will then be allotted a certain district and he will start in with the sole intention of getting well acquainted and establishing himself on a friendly basis with all the people of his district.

First, he will see that catalogues and advertising literature are thoroughly distributed in his district and then he will call on the people personally and make the most stirring offers of bargain lots of merchandise possible to secure.

The special representative in the mail order house will go further than merely trying to sell merchandise. He will spend his time visiting, organizing social clubs, making arrangements for farmers' entertainments, forming farmers' loan societies and insurance clubs and looking after the farmers' interests and welfare in every way possible. He will advise the farmer as being able to give free counsel and advice on all subjects, and always willing and ready to help the farmer in his difficulty and trouble.

All of this special service will cost the farmer nothing, but back of every motive, no matter how seemingly free and generous it may be, will be the fact that all this work is simply a part of an insurance plan of advertising, destined to catch the farmer at his weakest point and enthrall him in the meshes of mail order dependence.

This game is not unlike the systems of all other trusts, it being different only in its application. The sample of merchandise to be distributed will represent special bargain leaders offered at extremely low prices in order to get closer in touch with the farmer and make him feel a deeper interest in the mail order house.

In order to get the farmer interested in their faces they mail order houses will have money at first if necessary, just to get the farmer in habit of buying through a catalogue. The sole object of this campaign is to secure the farmer away from purchasing goods of any kind from his home merchant, and it bears out the boast of a prominent mail order man who said: "Give me but time and I will make the cities of this country, towns, I will make towns villages, and the villages and hamlets I will wipe off the map."—Commercial Bulletin.

FLAYS LANGDON ACT

Taxation Measure Decried by Friend and Adviser of Governor Harmon.

The Langdon tax commission law is considered by most folk as the most important legislation enacted at the recent session of the General Assembly of Ohio, but this long step in the direction of taxation reform is already being ridiculed by the friends and advisers of Governor Harmon.

The Columbus correspondent of the Postoria Times literally picks this measure to pieces. "It is expected to add $1,200,000 per year to the state's revenues," it says, "it may, and it may not, but before the commission succeeds in gathering in an additional $1,200,000 per year by a 4 per cent assessment upon the gross earnings of railroads on their business within the state; a like assessment of 5 per cent on the gross receipts of express and telephone companies and one-half of 1 per cent on the gross receipts of other corporations, there will be a lawsuit or two. In fact it would not be surprising if the new commission finds itself tied hand and foot with injunctions, and unable to collect any tax at all from corporations under the provisions of the Langdon bill until after a long and stubborn fight in the courts."

This reads a great deal like an invitation to the corporations to "come on in and fight." Coming from one who enjoys the confidence of the governor and is a member of the governor's friendship to corporations, this advance attack on the Langdon law is suggestive.

But there should be no chance for "long and stubborn fights in court" while Judge Harmon is governor of Ohio. He is the man who can defeat the unconstitutional provisions of a legislative enactment before the ink is dry on it—sometimes before even he, himself, has read the bill (vide Col. Harmon vs. Harmon, Apr. 23, p. 6.)

If the corporations attack the Langdon law it is because Uncle Jud has shown 'em a hole in the fence.

CAN STAND THE TEST

Republican Party Has Never Been Afraid to "Do Things When in Power."

In these days when the muckraker is abroad in the land and the spirit of hostile criticism predominates the question party, it is a good idea to listen to the voice of reason once in a while.

The independent and unbiased Coleridgean Tri-M calls the attention of its readers to the fact that "the real test of any individual or party is the test of power, or responsibility. In national affairs and in the affairs of a large majority of the states the Republican party has been in unintermittent control for more than a decade. About the only intermission that can be put on this fact is that the people, as a whole, have had more confidence in the Republican than in the Democratic party."

"The opposition, the Democratic party, has during all this time been in a position to criticize and censure. And we submit that there has been the easier task. It is always easier to look on and denounce than it is to enter the initiative and do things. And to the credit of the Republican party be it said it has never been accused justly of being afraid to do things, as compared with the record of other parties."

The point is well taken, and should be remembered by Ohio voters from now until election day—the Republican party has never been an artful dodger; has never relaxed in effort; has never lacked courage to "do things."

True Paint Economy

Buy Good Paint

It costs less for the labor of putting on good paint than cheap paint, because it takes fewer gallons of paint to cover a given surface, consequently it takes less time.

Good paint will cover more surface, because in good paint the body is composed of elastic substances—Pure White Lead, Pure Zinc—which, when properly mixed with pure Linseed Oil, flows out well under the brush.

In cheap paint the body is composed of brittle substances—whiting, etc.—thinned out with benzoin and like materials, consequently it dries as soon as it touches the surface. The real economy of Good Paint is that it wears for years, is always bright and glossy, while cheap paint will check and peel off in a few months.
